

NEW JERSEY - In light of an extreme fire risk across New Jersey, the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (NJDEP) has announced a statewide fire ban, effective on both public lands and private properties. This restriction will remain in place across all municipalities as part of an effort to safeguard residents.

Restrictions Under the NJDEP Fire Ban:

- Prohibited Fires: All outdoor fires, including bonfires and residential fire pits, are strictly prohibited.
- Allowed Fires: Only fires in elevated stoves that use propane, natural gas, or electricity are permitted.
- Banned Materials: The use of wood, charcoal, kerosene, or gas torches is restricted.
- Fireworks: No fireworks displays or celebrations involving pyrotechnics are allowed.

MANDATORY STATEWIDE FIRE BAN IS IN EFFECT UNTIL STATED OTHERWISE.
